

CORPORATIONS AND HUMAN RIGHTS:

THOUGHTS ON THE ENVIRONMENTAL, SOCIAL, AND GOVERNANCE (ESG) MOVEMENT - A VIEW FROM ASIA

Dennis Kwok

Former Member of the Hong Kong Legislative Council,
Partner at Elliott Kwok Levine & Jaroslaw LLP
(New York), and Visiting Lecturer in the Political Science Department at Northeastern University

→ February 3, 2023

→ Dockser Hall 42

→ 12:45 - 2:00 PM

→ Lunch will be served!

When companies and investors talk about their Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG) commitments, most focus only on environmental issues – and overlook social and governance issues. Of particular concern are human rights violations related to supply chain policies and modern slavery practices. How can we harness the ESG movement to address these and other issues? How can we promote the ESG movement in the face of political backlash? What issues deserve the focused attention of policy makers and the legal profession?

N Northeastern Law
Program on Human Rights and the Global Economy

N Northeastern University
College of Social Sciences and Humanities
Political Science

Registration

